

THE Bookshop BAND

TECH SPEC

Small venues with no PA:

For small venues and audiences up to 80 people we can provide our own PA (please discuss this with us in advance). We will require access to at least two plug sockets in the near vicinity of the “stage” area, 2x armless chairs and some drinking water for the performance.

Standard Tech Requirements for larger venues with their own PA:

ESSENTIAL

1x XLR channel (+48v) for Beth's cello pickup
1x instrument mic (stage centre / right)
1x microphone for an amp
1x DI (baritone big brown uke) - eq for warm / mellow
1x DI (tenor smaller yellow uke) - eq for lightness
2x monitors
Access to 2x power sockets
2x armless chairs
Drinking water

OPTIONAL

MIXING TIPS

- Beth and Ben share the lead vocals equally, generally taking it in turns. They “should” balance it out themselves, but if you need to ride it, the clue is whoever introduces the song is 99% usually the lead singer. The vocals / words should be clearly heard in the mix.
- Tasteful reverb only, except on Ben's steel string (smallish) guitar which he likes to think can sound epic.

IMPORTANT

Chances are that the band will be bringing a baby. I guess they will talk to you about it, but they may well ask for someone to look after Molly during the gig. She is super cute, often hilarious and generally well behaved. Her bedtime is around 8pm so she may well be asleep.
